3. Personal color wheel

*This is a really tough question as I don't genuinely "dislike" any color, perhaps only certain combinations of colors. Even with the wheel above, I appreciate some of the "ugly" color combos.

Burnt orange and white stripes flap against the azure blue of a cloudless sky.

The sand is soft, dusty pink, undisturbed but for the occasional iridescence of a stranded Portuguese Man of War, glistening under the white-hot sun in a swirl of ultramarine, turquoise, and fuchsia.

Limed white roofs peak out of the succulent, emerald green trees as they gently sway to and fro. As the sun sets, the sky transforms in shades of papaya and powder blue before swallowing the ocean in a soft, inky, midnight hue.
