

User Experience 1

- understood homepage easily
- says they like a emphasized button on the homepage for what it is they are trying to do
- doesn't prefer any small text that's important, for example: the $1.99 service charge for transferring money in small print
- Doesn't like that after the transfer the app doesn't automatically take you to home page, you have to click back multiple times
- Thinks the accounts of other people should be color coded like a contact list

User Experience 2

- Said that they tend to prefer money transfer apps that only take 3 steps or less to get the job done.
- As long as the money is safe and secure when being transferred they don't care how the interface looks just that it doesn't take long to finish the task.
- Said the landing page is "self explanatory", suggested a less exciting color for the money button because it can be "triggering" in neon green like the original app
