

Cape Town, South Africa
Richer in wildlife than any places I've ever been
I visited you this past summer,
But for you, it was winter
And yet,
Your colors were brighter than any places I've ever seen
Forests so luxurious, one would think we had manually edited them
With all saturated hues of green

City of the cape of Africa,
Where two oceans are meeting,
Bringing together an infinity of shades of blue
So vivid one can't help but want to swim
And that,
Despite the cold winter winds and streams

Lucky to have stayed on the beach,
I took all your sunrises and sunsets in for a week
And what a spectacle of warm colors
Dancing all over your incredible shades of blues and greens
