

Week 2 Assignment: Color Theory Application

The colors of a staycation...

As soon as you cross the bridge to Miami Beach, I realize very quickly that there's a lot to see and do. From the shimmering ocean to the neon lights pulsating along the Art Deco streets, it is a feast for the senses.

The tangy colors, blue skies, the turquoise ocean and the colorful buildings are images that make us to explore the fine line between reality and fantasy using through language of colors and subtly manipulated spaces which also empowers the viewers to travel those spaces with different entrances.

For me, I see color-saturated images seem especially alive when made under the hot sun on the beach, the vitality of the colors matched by the dynamism of composition with figures in motion casting shadows against brightly painted walls, moments of joy and fun are captured. I think that color is more vibrant at the beach, probably because of reflection from the sand, which is usually white, also the blue sky and the blue – green of the ocean, make a feeling of a vibrant atmosphere.

And it's not just color that makes the beach an ideal location to explore; the laid-back mood and busy environment conspire to make the beach preferred setting.
