

Color Theory - Color Poem

Rainbow Across My Day

By Jae Young Kim

Red, a handful of strawberries and cherries,
sitting on my kitchen table. Red.

Orange, a shopping bag from the bodega,
filled with sweet but salty chips. Orange.

Yellow, an old yet still foamed sponge,
waiting to wash dishes in a sink. Yellow.

Green, countless leaves in all unique shapes,
just right outside of my window under the sunlight. Green.

Blue, blankets and pillows on my bed,
unfolded and out of shape but still cozy. Blue.

Indigo, a denim jean just got out of the dryer,
bringing the warmth and comfiness, Indigo.

Violet, the sky with a hint of sunset dimming,
leaving today to meet its end. Violet.
