

I made a poster inspired by Bauhaus-era design, then used color palettes riffing on combinations found in panels of Michelangelo's Sistine Chapel (plus inversions of the colors of one of the panels). The results often seem drawn from nature, sometimes muted, and quite earthy.

